Private Sector Disaster Recovery Plan

Disaster recovery and redevelopment planning for Georgia's private-sector is in progress...

Brunswick, GA - After a busy hurricane season in 2011, the Georgia Department of Natural Resources Coastal Resources Division is working with business leaders to create a guidance document to help private-sector organizations recover from disasters. The resources in this document can serve as a program guide to owners by providing recommendations and tools to re-open after an event.

The private sector is a critically important factor in community recovery. Our hope is to make chapter recovery easier and more effective by reducing impact on and providing access to governmental and community resources. This will help the affected community weather this time of community recovery and strengthen its path forward.

The private sector is crucial to the process of rebuilding the community for the future ahead. The community's biggest challenge is quickly identifying the needs of its residents, Georgia's businesses owners.

Please help identify the private sector chapter recovery needs. This project team has prepared a list of critical services to guide the recovery process. It includes information on state and local government resources that private sector businesses can use to return to normalcy after a disaster.
